

NEWS RELEASE

August 4, 2015
Otsuka Foods Co., Ltd.

Otsuka Foods to Release “Toriniku to Tofu no Jibunifu”
and “Wafu Mabodofu” as New Products in its “Ginza Rokusantei Konya wa Ryotei no Aji” Lineup
Featuring Easy-to-Prepare and Delicious Sauces Made under the Supervision of Rokusaburo Michiba
In Stores across Japan on August 17, 2015

TOKYO, Japan, August 4, 2015 — Otsuka Foods Co., Ltd. (Head Office: Chuo Ward, Osaka; President: Sadanobu Tobe) announced today that it will start selling two new products in its Ginza Rokusantei Konya wa Ryotei no Aji lineup across Japan on August 17, 2015: Toriniku to Tofu no Jibunifu and Wafu Mabodofu. As part of the Ginza Rokusantei series of premium dishes, these products are made with both sauce and spices, providing all the seasoning needed to prepare delicious Japanese side dishes—consumers just add the needed other ingredients, sauté, and then simmer.

Made under the supervision of Rokusaburo Michiba, a Japanese celebrity chef, the Ginza Rokusantei series consists of Japanese-style meals that “bring the taste of a traditional Japanese restaurant to the home.” Since first going on sale in 2004, the series has gained a wide reputation as a new kind of classy Japanese dish.

Both new products are part of the Ginza Rokusantei Konya wa Ryotei no Aji lineup, the name of which means “the taste of traditional Japan tonight with Ginza Rokusantei.” Toriniku to Tofu no Jibunifu is based on a local stew called “Jibuni” from Ishikawa Prefecture, where Rokusaburo Michiba grew up. Easily cooked at home, the dish is made with chicken and tofu. Otsuka Foods prepared it in a fish broth made from bonito, mackerel and frigate mackerel to create a deeply rich flavor. Similarly, Otsuka Foods prepared Wafu Mabodofu, a Japanese-style version of the Sichuan style spicy sauce for tofu, based on a kombu (kelp) soup stock with flavorful dried bonito, with an aromatic paste made from yuzu and chile peppers added to create a savory and spicy dish.

Ginza Rokusantei
Konya wa Ryotei no Aji
Toriniku to Tofu no Jibunifu

Ginza Rokusantei
Konya wa Ryotei no Aji
Wafu Mabodofu