An Exquisite Dish with Prominent Umami from Stock
Made Under the Supervision of Celebrity Chef
Rokusaburo Michiba
In Stores Across Japan on March 4, 2019

TOKYO, Japan, February 12, 2019 — Otsuka Foods Co., Ltd. (Head Office: Chuo Ward, Osaka; President: Atsumasa Makise) announced today that it will start selling Ginza Rokusantei—Ryotei no Oyako-Don, a mixed ingredient product for use as a topping for rice, in its Ginza Rokusantei series of premium dishes across Japan on March 4, 2019.

Made under the supervision of Rokusaburo Michiba, a Japanese celebrity chef, the Ginza Rokusantei series consists of Japanese-style meals that “bring the taste of a traditional Japanese restaurant to the home.” Since first going on sale in 2004, the series has gained a wide reputation as a new kind of classy Japanese dish.

The new Ginza Rokusantei—Ryotei no Oyako-Don is made entirely of carefully selected Japanese ingredients to create a delicious oyako-don (chicken and egg topping for rice) with the prominent umami of dashi stock. It is an exquisite dish combining Japanese young chicken (breast and thigh meat) marinated in shio koji (a salty rice malt) with Japanese onions and fluffy eggs. Juice from yuzu (a kind of citrus) grown on trees raised from seed in Tokushima Prefecture is used as a subtle seasoning to bring out the flavor. Just pour the product over a bowl of hot rice to enjoy the taste of a traditional Japanese restaurant.

Otsuka Foods is expanding the lineup of Ginza Rokusantei Series products in order to bring even more delicious washoku dishes to consumers.
